Topic 10.7.1.1: Preparation to Teach in School 3: Induction

Day of visit MONDAY, [illegible]

Date of visit 05 JULY, 2026

- Record your reflections on the following:

1. School culture

The School is welcoming and conductive to teaching and learning, teachers and learners interacts and the level of mutual respect and readiness to learn. There are many forms of extra curriculum activities performed by the School.

2. Key education policies

EDEN
P. O. BOX
KUMASI

National standards - such as the National Teachers' standards (NTS) and the National Teacher Education Curriculum Framework (NTECF) are guiding the classroom Key focus areas includes shifting towards learner centered instruction and ensuring fairness and diversity in student assesment.

3. The wider school life

Beyond academics, extracurricular activities like Sports, clubs and cultural events foster holistic student development teamwork and discipline. Daily routines like morning assembly and Communal cleaning builds school spirit and healthy relationships among students and staff.

4. GESI Issues

Boys, girls and learners with special needs are generally given equal opportunities to participate in class. However some gender biases remain regarding classroom task assignment and certain students require specialized learning materials to thrive.

5. Integration of ICT by teachers

ICT integration is growing but remains limited by insufficient hardware and digital resources. Teachers primarily use ICT for administrative tasks (e.g. Preparing learning Plan) while actual classroom whiles actual classroom integration involves playing basic educational videos to enhance lesson.

6. Assessment component of the Year 3 STS

They are continious and comprehensive, including formative (class assignment) and Sumative (end-of-term exams) methods aligned with the standard curriculum. student teacher use portfolio to gather concrete evidence and learner progress overtime.

What knowledge have you learned from the induction regarding GESI and the integration of ICT into teaching and learning?

- I ~~have~~ learnt to identify and address gender biases and promote equal opportunities so that all students regardless of gender, disability or social background can fully participate in the classroom.
- I have learnt to move beyond just using Computers but to allign digital tools for specific learning objectives.
- Creating inclusive Environment by fostering respect, tolerance and empathy
